VIVO|TELEFÔNICA DO BRASIL

Having an exact understanding of the millions of dependencies between the many tens of thousands of Mainframe objects that make up our Production Processing environment would simply be impossible without a powerful and trustworthy tool such as the RES Suite from RES IT.

With business applications encompassing several systems and serving vast geographical locations, the RES Suite provides an easy methodology for VIVO to obtain a highly detailed immediate knowledge about their Information Systems assets and their dependencies in an integrated and unified view serving Development and Production Planning along with the improving the capabilities of the managers in several other areas.

RES Suite satisfied our information needs and we are currently evolving other RES Solutions targeting other objectives, such as Standardization, Quality, Automation, Monitoring, Clean-Up and batch Reengineering.

With RES Suite, we feel that we have placed VIVO in a position as a technological vanguard through which we are already experiencing a positive business impact. And we have still much to expect from the new Projects we will be doing with this RES Suite Solution.
